SHLOKA GAYAN

Sanskrit is the most ancient language. It is called the mother of all other languages. The beauty and functionality of Sanskrit is appreciated not only in India but all over the world. Infact NASA considers Sankrit pivotal for learning computers!

As a recognition and celebration of this beautiful language, DAV Public School, Sector-49 celebrated a Shlok Gayan competition on 17.07.2019. All the participants recited a medley of inspirational shlokas with great fervour. They impressed the judges with their choice of shlokas, clarity of pronunciation and lucid explanation of the shloks. Hidia Sohal of Shakti House won the First Prize, Pramath and Vaishnavi Vaid of Neeti House won the Second and Third Prize and Aditi Choudhury of Preeti House was awarded the Encouragement Prize.
